

JKUAT Student Beats World Giants for Top Global Award

A student from Jomo Kenyatta University of Agriculture and Technology (JKUAT) has won the 2019 Students Projects for Health Competition. Stephen Odiwuor Ochieng, a final year medical student got an award from a US-based Foundation for Advancement of International Medical Education and Research. Odiwuor got recognition following his community initiative, seeking to address the burden of malnutrition among children enrolled in early childhood development, The Standard reports. <https://www.kenyans.co.ke/news/40335-jkwat-student-beats-world-giants-top-global-award>